

CASE STUDY INFORMATION

Communicating Effective Solutions to Common Food Label Issues

Thank you participating in our case study program. Our objective is to better understand the value Food Consulting Company creates for our clients so we can continually improve our services. Once the case study is complete, we invite you to share it to support your internal or external initiatives as well.

Process – Our process to collect your feedback is simple.

1. Please review the basic questions below.
2. You are welcome to jot down your answers and send them to us at clientservice@foodlabels.com or we can schedule a call with our marketing specialist who will talk you through the process and capture the answers for you.
3. We will draft a case study for your review.
4. Once you have approved the case study and we have your logo (high resolution JPEG), we will provide the link for your use. We may choose to include the case study in an issue of Food Label News or on our website: www.foodlabels.com.
5. Please know that Food Consulting Company is happy to speak to the media on your behalf, if necessary, for your external communications.
